Is TASARA a cryptocurrency?

No. TASARA is not a public currency and is not trying to replace or compete with the Naira, the Liberian dollar, or any national currency. You pay for goods and services in your local currency as normal. Omni is an internal receipt and voucher system used only within the TASARA network — not a tradable public asset.

Do I need to pay anything to join TASARA?

No. Signing up as a general member (a "System Participant") is free. Certain tiers of the Merchant Steward program — for people who want to sell products or services through TASARA — involve a registration commitment. Full details are provided directly during the verification process, not on this page.

Is TASARA connected to a church or religious organization?

TASARA is an economic initiative of Iron Mint Stewardship Ltd, open to anyone regardless of faith or background. Its founder is also involved in ministry work through a separate organization, Ekklēsia Omni Missions, but TASARA membership, the Directory, and the Merchant Steward program carry no religious requirement.

What is Omni?

Omni is TASARA's internal receipt and voucher system. When you pay for something through the TASARA network, you may receive an Omni receipt, and Omni vouchers (physical or virtual) can be used for further transactions within the system.

How do I become a Merchant Steward?

Three steps: reach out via @TasaraHub on Telegram or WhatsApp with what you offer and where; get verified with the Administrative Manager's office; once approved, you're listed in the Directory. Full terms are shared directly with you during this process.

Is my information shared with other members?

Only what's necessary to fulfil a request. If you submit a product or service request, your contact details are shared only with the specific Merchant Steward assigned to serve you — not broadcast to the general community. See our Privacy Policy for full details.

Where does TASARA currently operate?

TASARA's pilot is running in Otukpo, Nigeria, with planned expansion to urban hubs (Lagos, Abuja, Port Harcourt), then West Africa, then wider Pan-African replication.

How do I get support or ask a question?

General enquiries: WhatsApp (+234 704 019 6666) or email (tasaraafrica@gmail.com). Community and marketplace discussion: @TasaraHub on Telegram. Official announcements: @TasaraOfficial on Telegram.

Can I buy or sell products directly on the website?

Not yet. The website is a directory and a way to submit requests — actual contact and transactions with Merchant Stewards happen directly, off-platform, currently coordinated through Telegram.

Who runs TASARA?

TASARA is an initiative and trademark of Iron Mint Stewardship Limited, founded by Emmanuel Adakole Michael (Ra'ah).
